

Doormat or Dictator?

Do you let your child manipulate you when you are trying to discipline?

Are you a pushover? You could be a doormat.

Do you lose control of your emotions when you discipline?

Do you make it a point to win every battle? You could be a dictator.

The Active Parent works WITH the child respectfully, yet firmly, to avoid battles and get desired results. Learn how in just two nights!

Wilson County Parent Testimonials:

“Why did I not know about these classes before now?”

In the first part of the video, I learned my parenting style (and didn't like it).

The second part of the video showed me how to do a better job disciplining my child. I just wish my husband had come with me.”

“I use the techniques I learned when I talk with my husband. Treating him with respect gets me respect. Because we learned to stay calm, we don't argue about the kids as much.”

Carroll-Oakland Elementary Library

Facilitators: Beth Petty, LSSD Family Resource Center Coordinator, Julie Harrison, WC Schools Family Resource Center Coordinator, and Melissa Bay, Title I Teacher

*Free Childcare and Refreshments Provided
Free $15 Parenting Manual for attending both nights*

Parents who attend this workshop are always positive about the information presented. They wonder why more parents do not attend.

Join us to see what they think you are missing!

See opposite side to RSVP!!!
